Here at Hagley Hall 'yours for the day' really does mean what it says!

Hagley Hall is the 18th Century home of Lord & Lady Cobham. Set in 350 acres of spectacular landscaped parkland, the Hall with its ornate State rooms and rich Rococo décor offers a splendid and unique venue for your wedding day.

Exclusive use of this Palladian mansion for civil ceremonies & receptions, together with our experienced staff and bespoke wedding service, will ensure that your special day is certainly one to remember.

The versatility of the Hall means you can choose to have a civil ceremony and drinks reception for up to 140 guests or a civil ceremony, reception and wedding breakfast for 110. Larger parties can easily be accommodated in a marquee within the grounds.

For winter weddings, depending on your numbers and preferred room layout, a fire can be lit in the grand fireplaces throughout the hall creating a warm and inviting atmosphere.

At Hagley Hall we understand that the ceremonial room needs to be perfect for such a special occasion. Therefore we have been careful to licence a selection of State rooms so that no matter what your requirements you are sure to find a room that suits your wishes. The Saloon, with its ornate plasterwork, offers the most beautiful and historic setting with quintessentially English views of the village church and cricket ground. With 90 chairs arranged in theatre style and further standing room for up to 10 guests you still have plenty of room for a generous central isle.

If your numbers are up to 140 then the stately Gallery with its breathtaking chandeliers and enchanting views of the deer park makes a superb setting and at 26 meters long, gives you a perfect opportunity to show off your wedding dress!

For smaller numbers the Library offers intimacy and romance and provides a wonderfully snug setting for as little as two, although witnesses are required!

After the ceremony, enjoy champagne and canapés in the White Hall serenaded by a string quartet or even a solo pianist on the family's baby grand. The large expanse of windows means the White Hall is flooded with light and along with its wonderful arched lobby, fabulous plaster work and life-size figures of the Gods such as Bacchus and Venus all provide the perfect setting to toast the newly wedded couple.

Again the versatility of the Hall allows us to accommodate your every desire, making sure you have the exquisite dining experience you deserve on your special day.

The Gallery, with its silken wall coverings provides lavishness in both style and décor. It caters for 110 people on round tables seating 10 with a traditional long top table.

For smaller parties the Saloon can seat 60 on round tables and the richly decorated Crimson Dining Room, overlooking the front lawn and beyond to the rolling hills of Worcestershire, is ideal for intimate dining for up to 28 around the antique dining table.

The newly refurbished entertainment suite here at Hagley Hall allows you to party the night away. The modern yet stylish disco, lounge and bar can accommodate your evening celebrations and extra guests. It's like getting 2 venues for the price of 1.

If you have very large numbers then you can arrange for a marquee in the grounds with the Hall as a spectacular backdrop. Don't worry – you can still experience the splendour that the Hall has to offer by inviting your guests to a champagne reception in one of the State rooms before dining in the marquee.

Based on years of expertise Hagley Hall provides a second to none location with warm hospitality and fine dining – all designed to enhance the magic of your special day, whether it's a civil ceremony, reception or both.
